Cole proposes policy for tailgating next fall

by Scott Rhyne

A revised tailgate policy calling for a registration fee, expanded tailgating hours and a three-keg per group allowance will be proposed by Student Body President John Cole.

If the policy is approved by Eastern's Vice President's Council, it would take affect next fall.

Cole said the proposal recommends that the tailgate hours be 10:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m.

In addition, tailgating would be permitted at halftime and for half an hour after the game ends, he said.

"Also, we hope to be able to extend the limit to three kegs per group," he added.

The new policy would also require students to pay a $10 fee and to register in the Business Operations Office.

"This will allow students to park in an area assigned to them," he said.

Of the $10 fee, $5 will go to a clean-up group and the other $5 will be returned to the tailgaters or to the clean-up group, depending on the condition of the area after the tailgaters have left, Cole added.

The money will be used to pay groups for clean-up of the tailgate area. "This will be a good way for fraternities, sororities, residence halls and other groups to make money," he said.

The proposal will be presented to the administration for final approval.

Cole said, "We will present it to President Rives to take to the Vice President's Council, hopefully, within the next two weeks. We would like to have it finalized within the next month."

"However, if it isn't passed, we will continue to revise it until it is agreeable with the administration. We will definitely have something by the fall semester," he added.

Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said he does not know whether the new policy would be implemented. (See COLE, page 7)

Buddy Button system gets mixed student responses

by Amy Zurawski

Some Eastern students recently expressed negative attitudes toward the Buddy Button System; however, several students said the program would be beneficial to the campus security.

Sophomore Debbie Mordhorst said she would not use the Buddy Button System because of the "initial trust that the system requires to be given to someone you don't know at all."

She added that she did not think it would be wise for other students to use the system because "of the untrustability of some people."

The Buddy Button System, organized by senior Keith Cornille and junior Lucy O'Brien, is designed to have students wear colored buttons that coordinate with the area they live in.

Cornille has said people can approach a person wearing the same color button and ask that person to escort them home.

In addition, Cornille has recently updated the program, scheduled to begin in March, to add numbers to the buttons which will be assigned to people when the buttons are distributed.

However, Mordhorst was not the only student who questioned the trust needed by each individual in order to make the program successful.

Freshman Dan Dunbar said too much trust would have to be placed in people that may not necessarily be trustworthy.

"The program does have it's good points, but it calls for just too much trust to be given to someone you don't know," he added.

Instructors uncertain about benefits of new college

by Len Krasnowski

Some School of Technology instructors Sunday expressed mixed opinions whether the new College of Applied Sciences will benefit their programs.

The Board of Governors, Eastern's controlling board, Thursday approved combining Eastern's home economics and technology schools and military science and occupational education programs to create the College of Applied Sciences.

Industrial technology instructor Wayne Coleman Sunday voiced several concerns about the reorganization.

"I don't care what college they put us in," Coleman said. "My main concern is that we (industrial technology) are only a program and not a department. But this was a problem before this plan was proposed."

"We don't have an identity," he said.

"The industrial technology program is still a relatively small unit in the university," he noted. "Most people think of the industrial education program when we are mentioned."

Coleman also said the current industrial technology program still needs a specific leader.

"We need a chairman who the faculty can turn to—who the students can turn to," he said.

In addition, Coleman said he believes the industrial technology program will lose its accreditation because it does not have a department chairman.

Last year, the industrial technology program received a two-year probationary accreditation from the National Association of Industrial Technology.

Coleman said a NAIT requirement for full accreditation is that the program have a chairman or a similar position.

"We will lose our accreditation if we do not have a chairman," Coleman said. "We should have autonomy; the NAIT wants us to have a department chairman."

However, technology instructor Ron Jones said he believes the reorganization may strengthen the School of Technology.

"I think we have more power now as a larger group on campus by the sheer number of faculty in the new college," Jones said.

But Jones noted that the reorganization played a part in former technology school assistant dean John Wright's decision to resign.

Wright submitted his resignation last Monday. He has accepted a position as associate dean of the College of Science and Technology at California University of Pennsylvania.

"He did state publicly that part of his decision was based on the reorganization," Jones said.

Although Wright said the reorganization did influence his decision, it was not the major factor in his resignation.

"I had an opportunity to accept a challenge," Wright said. "It is an opportunity for personal growth for me."

Wright said he is "optimistic" about the future of the School of Technology.

"When it all washes out, the college will become better under the new structure," Wright said. "I have a lot of confidence in Dean (Barbara) Owens as an administrator."

Under the restructuring, Barbara Owens, former School of Home Economics dean, will assume the (See INSTRUCTORS, page 5)

Pilot killed 150 yards from home

MANHATTAN, Ill.—A 16-year-old student pilot was killed Sunday when the single-engine plane in which he was soloing plunged to the ground in rural Will County about 150 yards from his home, authorities said.

The county sheriff's office identified the teen-ager as Matthew Misischia, of Manhattan Township. Sheriff John Shelley said the boy had a solo permit and was the only one aboard the two-seat, Cessna 152 aircraft.

No other injuries or ground damage were caused by the crash, which occurred in an open field about 12 miles south of Joliet.

Shelley said Misischia took off from nearby Frankfort Airport just before noon and was heading southwest when the plan nosed down sharply into the field, skidded along the ground for 50 feet, flipped over on its top.

University instructor convicted

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—The lawyer for an Indiana University professor convicted of promoting prostitution and soliciting a prostitute says his client "started a social life," not a prostitution ring.

John Krueger, 56, an expert on Mongolian language and culture, faces a possible nine-year sentence and $45,000 fine following his conviction Saturday night.

Krueger remained free on bond after a Monroe Circuit Court jury found him guilty on a felony charge of promoting prostitution and a misdemeanor charge of soliciting a prostitute.

Monroe Circuit Judge James Dixon did not set a date for sentencing.

Body of millionaire's wife found

PEORIA, Ill.—Peoria County's coroner said Sunday that millionaire Elmo Batterton and his wife, Edna, missing for 2½ months before their bodies were found 10 miles apart in the Illinois River, may have committed "a double suicide."

Coroner Herbert Buzbee made the comment after reporting initial results of an autopsy on Mrs. Batterton's badly decomposed body, which was found by divers in the couple's submerged luxury car on Saturday. The 1977 Mercedes-Benz was hoisted by a crane out of the river in downtown Peoria and the body was sent to the county morgue.

Buzbee said Sunday morning's 2½-hour autopsy used dental charts and a medical alert wrist bracelet on the body to positively identify Mrs. Batterton. He said the body probably had been underwater since around the time she and her husband disappeared — Dec. 11.

Buzbee said there were no signs of gunshot or stabbing trauma or any other indication of foul play on the body, the same conclusion as that reached by investigators on her husband's body. The 55-year-old millionaire's corpse was found Thursday floating in the waterfront of Pekin, 10 miles downriver from where the car was found.

U.S. Marines continue to pull out

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The U.S. Marines pulled out of Beirut on Sunday and an hour later the battleship New Jersey turned its big guns on Syrian anti-aircraft gunners that had fired on a U.S. reconnaissance jet.

The jet was not hit and no Syrian casualties were reported in the fire from the New Jersey's 16-inch guns, the largest on any ship on the world.

Fighting between the Moslems and Christians kept up all day along the "green line" that divides Beirut and police said 13 people were killed and 47 wounded. The fighting has mounted steadily since Friday's short-lived Saudi-mediated cease-fire.

The evacuation of about 1,000 Marines began just after midnight Sunday and was completed in about 12 hours, with the front-line combat companies Echo and Fox being taxied out by helicopter.

The last of the Marines' amphibious personnel carriers rolled into the Mediterranean surf at 12:27 p.m. with Staff Sgt. Jerry Elokovich, 32, of Toledo, Ohio, waving from atop the vehicle.

The Beirut airport positions the Marines vacated were divided up quickly between the Lebanese army and Moslem militiamen, with the key airport positions going to the army. The militiamen raised their green flag over the western perimeter of the airport base and also claimed part of the coastal highway.

With the marines, the Italians and the British gone, only a 1,500-member French contingent is left of the Multinational Force in Beirut. It is deployed along the green line.

About 100 Marines remain to guard the U.S. Embassy offices on Beirut's northern coastline, and 80 U.S. Army advisers and seven staff members remain at the Lebanese Defense Ministry.

As the Marines were pulling out, Syrian anti-aircraft fire forced a U.S. reconnaissance jet to fly back to sea. The New Jersey responded with shelling of Syrian position in the Metn mountains northeast of Beirut.

Law extension to be considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, beset by heavy lobbying and in-house maneuvering, faces a Monday midnight deadline for extending a law barring merchants from charging more to people who use credit cards.

But barring the unexpected, Congress will lose the race with time, letting merchants charge what they will, legislative aides say.

Consumer groups, congressional allies, the Federal Reserve Board and should be scrapped because cash customers are subsidizing card-users.

Opposing them in the fight are banks with their Master and Visa cards and other giants like American Express, who fear a drop in business if plastic-money transactions carry an added fee.

A recent Federal Reserve study said credit cards increase the cost of goods and services to all customers because a merchant marks up his prices to recover the 2 percent to 3 percent typically paid to card companies for handling credit sales.

The study said although merchants are free to offer discounts to cash customers, the practice is largely confined to service stations.

The American Bankers Association has no total volume for credit cards, but the amount is reflected by 1983 data for Visa: 72 million cards used worldwide for 911 million sales of nearly $47 billion.

The credit industry, which wants a permanent ban on surcharges, will settle for another temporary extension of the 1974 law. There have been three previous extensions, the most recent in 1981, ostensibly to allow the Federal reserve Board to study the issue.

The House has passed a bill to extend the ban through July 31, and the Senate Banking Committee has passed an extension through May 15.

But the Senate panel, in a reversal of previous votes, endorsed a second bill, this one to amend the federal Truth-in-Lending Act to permit credit-card surcharges of up to 5 percent.

Times Beach soil further tested

TIMES BEACH, Mo. (AP)—Preliminary tests of soil in this ghost town have found a concentration of the highly toxic chemical dioxin nearly four times stronger than previously known.

Dioxin levels range up to 1,200 parts per billion in the soil, according to an unpublished Environmental Protection Agency computer printout of 540 samples taken from city roads, ditches, wells, and area homes. The printout was obtained by the Associated Press.

"The results have been validated, which means that the lab's procedures have been checked," an EPA chemist who asked not be identified told the AP.

Previously the EPA had said the contamination at Times Beach was up to 330 parts per billion. The chemist said he believed the new figure was from a new test, not re-evaluation of an old one.

The Centers for disease Control says dioxin at levels over 1 ppb may be dangerous to people. It said the government would buy out Times Beach because of the dangers of dioxin, a contaminant in oil that was sprayed on roads to keep dust down.

Senate favors computer purchase

by Scott Rhyne

A proposal to purchase a computer for the student government was supported Wednesday by most student senators.

Senator Mike Anderson said he was in favor of purchasing a computer because it would provide "a ready file to any student" who wanted to know what the senate was doing.

However, senator Scott Calhoun said he did not support the purchase of a computer for student government. "Computers are not a cure-all" and there are many hidden costs in the long run such as paper for the printer and diskettes.

Student Body President John Cole said the cost of the computer would be about $3,300 or $3,400, including the personal computer with a 64K memory, two drives, keyboard, screen, printer and software.

Funds to purchase a computer must be approved by the senate. The Apportionment Board will hear the fiscal year 1984-85 Student Senate budget requests in March or April.

Cole said, "If we are not able to get the funds until next year's budget, we would have to wait until July 1984. However, I'm hoping that the AB will allocate $3,300 now, and then we would reduce our budget next year by $1,800."

The fall retreat budget will be reduced $500 to help fund the computer purchase, he said.

Cole said student government would benefit from the purchase of a home computer for office use.

"The possible uses for a computer in the office here are endless," Cole said. "Financially, it would be fantastic. We would be able to keep financial records of all previous years of the legislative and executive committees, OCSHA and other committees."

Senator Karim ElDib, who worked on the computer proposal with Cole, agreed that the computer would have many uses.

"We hope to get it as soon as possible, while there is still enthusiasm," he said. "If used to its potential, it will improve office efficiency and be a great aid to student government."

"The Financial Vice President would be able to keep account of what groups have spent in comparison to previous spending," he added.

"The main reason for the computer would be to improve office efficiency and switch to an automated office. Financial statements could be stored—as well as financial systems—in order to keep the books tighter," he said.

Cole said, "In addition, we will be able to cut down on a lot of paperwork and will be able to keep the minutes of the committee meetings, UB meetings and Student Senate meetings. We will also be able to print copies of the minutes via the computer."

ElDib said, "The computer will also be very timesaving with respect to our constitution. Now, every time a new amendment is made or changed, we have to type a complete new constitution. With the computer, we can make changes right on the screen without having to redo the whole thing."

In addition, Cole said that other campus groups could use the computer.

"The computer will be a great asset to OCSHA, for example," he said.

"They will be able to print out all available off-campus housing at the touch of a button," he noted. "You could add and delete from the list easily, enabling you to be up-to-date at any time."

"In addition, we will be considering possibly selling time to groups to cover costs for the computer, maintenance and supplies. Many groups could benefit in that way," he said.

Cole said he hopes the student government will choose to purchase an IBM Personal Computer.

The computer would be purchased by Computerland in Champaign, which offers a 26 percent discount to the student government, he said.

Proposed amendment restricts budget options

The federal deficit has been growing for the past 20 years; lately, it has ballooned to a proportion that could lead our nation into a devastating recession.

Activity to eliminate the deficit on the state level has increased. The states involved in this activity are clamoring for a new amendment to our country's Constitution which would require a balanced budget each year.

But this amendment proposal, which is two states away from being put up for ratification, is unnecessary and inconsistent with other amendments.

The amendment proposal is devised to force the federal government to live within its means each year and eliminate the huge deficit that has been troubling the U.S. since the days of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Harry S. Truman, the country's leader before Ike, was the last president to have a balanced budget. The budgets have been unbalanced in post-Truman days for many reasons; two of them being excessive military spending and abuses in the welfare system.

President Ronald Reagan would like the federal government to finish in the black as Truman did. When Reagan was seeking office in 1980, our president went as far as promising a balanced budget by 1984.

But the budget is not balanced and the deficit is almost $200 billion.

When he was celebrating his birthday in Eureka two weeks ago, Reagan again stated his support for the amendment.

We agree with the president that the budget should be balanced; this is something that should be sought every year. But there should not be an amendment requiring a balanced budget because it is too specific for the Constitution.

The Constitution is written in broad and ambiguous terms to allow many interpretations. When social and economic situations change and new national demands develop, the Supreme Court's interpretations of the Constitution change.

And stating that the budget will be balanced is a rule that leaves little room for interpretation. During a time of war, additional funding may be needed for the military; whereas a balanced-budget amendment could prohibit the allocation of such funds.

In the near future, an amendment requiring a balanced budget would force our administration to cut back on money designated to vital social programs such as social security, food stamps, and medicare.

A balanced budget is not only the responsibility of the president; keeping this country in the black is also Congress' responsibility. This responsibility must be viewed and handled by legislators with as much importance as obeying the law.

In a few months, the Illinois General Assembly will decide if they are going to request a constitutional convention to ratify this amendment.

Many state legislators' constituents will agree with this proposal—it sounds good. Some have said, "Almost everyone has to work within their budget and not beyond so why shouldn't the government?"

True, the federal budget should be balanced, but achieving this through the Constitution is not the proper way.

The proper way is to elect an administration that is fiscally responsible; and to elect Congressmen who will scrutinize each budget proposal, allow only the wheat to be saved and serve as the president's deficit watchdog that forces the administration to work toward balancing the budget.

Your turn

Hold the anchovies, please!

Editor:

I am expressing my views toward Eastern's athletics, specifically to the person in charge of promotions.

I would like to be the first to congratulate Kevin Anglin, promotions director, on the excellent job he is doing here at Eastern. Without him and his great promotion ideas, we would probably be going to Eastern basketball games and having crowds of around 1,500 or even less.

Just look at one idea this year that has done wonders; giving away free pizzas. I sit there at every game and sweat as much as the players, hoping the announcer calls my winning seat number.

Just imagine the look on my roommates' faces when I come home and tell them I won the big promotional prize—a pizza.

Come on, Mr. Anglin, this is Division I, not high school. Since the team hasn't been playing to their full potential, now is when the promotion director should be working to his fullest extent to get fans to come to the games.

Here are a few suggestions that wouldn't have been too tough to help bring fans out.

- Knowing before the season that Charleston and Taylorville both had 7-footers playing basketball. Why not schedule the game at Charleston in Lantz gym before the Panther contest.

- Have a Charleston or Mattoon night where everyone from that city could get in for a $1 or 50 cents. You would make up the ticket-price difference at the concession stand.
- Have everyone get and keep a ticket stub at the gate. Then at the end of each quarter, have a drawing and give away real prizes—not pizzas.
- Do away with the junior high programs and realize that Eastern is a Division I school and fork out some money for real programs. You have to invest money before you can earn any.

Don't rush into these ideas yet. There are probably 10,000 students jammed into Lantz gym on Saturday knowing one of them could come away with as much as a free pizza. Keep up the good work and don't try too hard.

Instructor strikes up the band

Editor:

We are proud to have a new faculty member, Greg Clemons, in the music department.

Clemons came to Eastern from California State University in Fresno and is presently working to achieve his doctorate from the University of Illinois. Last fall he directed the Panther Marching Band.

We are thankful that Clemons has chosen Eastern; his musical knowledge and instrumental expertise have been great assets to our department.

His help with the band as a group and as individuals is greatly appreciated, and his cheerful attitude has turned many a frown upside down.

We would like to offer our support to Clemons and our sincerest wishes that he will "kick off his shoes and stay a while."

AB deliberates, approves FY'85 budget proposals

by Anne Ingles

The Apportionment Board Thursday completed deliberations of the University Board budget requests for Fiscal Year 1985, but decided not to approve any budget requests until all fee-funded groups' budgets have been deliberated.

The AB discussed and motioned to approve budget requests for the performing arts, special events, video-tape and productions committees and the budgets for UB summer programming and general costs.

The AB moved to allot the UB Performing Arts Committee $1,200 less than the requested $17,308.

The budget was cut because AB student member Gina Menglekamp recommended that the UB increase the general public ticket prices $2 for the performing arts programs as an alternative to allocating student-fee money.

Also, the special events committee request was cut because one lecture program was deleted.

The AB motioned to fund $5,630 in fees for the special events budget.

In addition, the AB moved to approve $4,437 for the video-tape committee.

AB faculty member Paul Melcon moved to cut $500 from the original request because it was not clearly stated how the funds would be spent for video-tape promotions.

Melcon said the UB could request the money again in the fall when it had a more definite plan for promotions.

Also, the AB moved to approve the production committee's request for $4,311 in student fees. UB Productions Coordinator Floyd Akins said the money will be used to purchase new equipment.

In addition, the AB decreased UB's request for summer programming funds by $1,500 and motioned to approve $6,505 in student activity fees paid by summer school students.

Last summer, the UB summer programming provided Eastern students free movies, bands, lectures and an ice cream social.

However, AB student members Lynn Lippolt and Dan Brosseau said the budget should be cut because not many students attended the events.

Melcon argued that it is not fair to cut the budget request and reallocate money for fall and spring programs, because those funds are from fees paid by the students attending summer school.

In addition, the AB moved to approve $14,429 in student activity fees for UB's general costs.

General costs include UB fall and spring recruitment, duplicating, the tel-communications system and traveling costs for the regional conventions UB members attend.

AB student member Tammi Walker moved to cut UB's traveling expenses in half. Walker said the $5,000 spent on the three conventions during the year is "too much money."

However, AB members voted the motion down.

UB coordinators attend a regional convention every fall and spring. Coordinators participate in educational sessions and see showcases to pick acts to perform at Eastern.

In other business, David Reed, student publication adviser, presented Student Publications budget requests.

Student Publications requested $79,000, which is $13,000 more than last year's request.

Reed said the increase was requested to provide funds for the substantial rise in printing costs for Eastern's yearbook the Warbler.

Last semester, AB allotted the Warbler an additional $9,000 to cover the increased printing cost.

In addition, James Johnson presented the Art Board's budget requests for $7,100 in student fees.

The Art Board presents lectures, films and workshops for Eastern students, Johnson said.

The AB will deliberate over Student Publications and the Art Board's requests at the March 1 meeting.

Student publications

New editors to be named

The Publications Board Monday will name 1984-85 student publications editors in chief.

David Reed, student publications adviser, said he will make his nominations to the Publications Board's executive committee. The committee will then interview the candidates, he added.

The executive committee, the board's chairman, vice chairman and secretary, will then present its recommendations to the Publications Board for approval, he said.

Reed said he will recommend that the Daily Eastern News editor in chief term be changed to one semester for the 1984-85 school year.

Reed said he will recommend that junior Madeleine Doubek serve as editor in chief fall semester and junior Maureen Foertsch serve spring semester.

In addition, Reed will recommend junior Marc Pacatte for the position of editor in chief for the Summer Eastern News and sophomore David McKinney as the editor in chief for Eastern's yearbook the Warbler.

The Publications Board will meet at 4 p.m. Monday in the Union Schahrer room.

TAC displays children's art

The second annual International Exhibition of Children's Art is now on display at the Tarble Arts Center.

TAC curator Mark Alexander said the purpose of the International Children's Art Exhibit is to encourage and promote art education and international exchange.

Exhibit supervisor Pat Mahler said the exhibit is sponsored by the Charleston Community Unit School District Number 1.

Included in this year's exhibit will be work from the Children of the Canadian Society for Education through Art.

Other school districts to be represented include Paris, Neoga, Kansas, Arthur and Arcola, Alexander noted.

A reception is scheduled to be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the TAC.

The exhibit will be on display until March 2.

the position of dean of the College of Applied Sciences.

Owens could not be reached for comment Sunday.

Wright said, "This is not going to alter or change the programs—just a few administrative positions."

"The key is who they get to become the chair in the School of Technology and I'm confident Dean Owens will make a decision that will help the technology program," Wright added.

Virginia Vogel, School of Home Economics acting chairman/assistant dean, said she believes the school received what it requested in a position paper submitted to Eastern President Stanley Rives last November.

"Our second position paper said if the restructuring goes ahead, we want to retain the title of School of Home Economics and our administrative structure, or who reports to whom," Vogel said.

"Everything that we asked for has been implemented or is heading in that direction," she added. "There isn't any hostility now."

Compensation bill to help non-academic personnel

by Joseph Anglum

A bill which would allow Eastern's civil service employees an opportunity to receive unemployment benefits during layoff periods will be introduced in U.S. Congress Tuesday, a state legislator said.

Terry Bruce, Democratic candidate for Illinois' 19th Congressional district, said he will attempt to initiate the bill, which "if passed, will correct the problem."

Bruce spoke about the loss of unemployment benefits during Eastern's American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 981 meeting Thursday. In addition, David Lee Weir, Democratic candidate for state representative in the 106th district, also addressed the group.

Bruce said he will "introduce legislation (Tuesday) to alter the act and to allow non-academic personnel the right to draw unemployment benefits."

"A lot of people are agitated about a new unemployment compensation package that passed last year," Bruce said. "No one is trying to deny you (AFSCME employees) unemployment benefits."

The unemployment compensation bill, proposed by Illinois Senate President Phillip Rock and passed last summer, abolished all unemployment benefits for civil service employees during these layoff periods.

Bruce said, currently, workers are not eligible to receive unemployment compensation during layoff periods.

This ineligibility differs from that of academic personnel who are eligible to receive unemployment benefits during the summer, even though their contract pays them year round.

He added that workers with the most seniority are given top priority to the available jobs during these breaks, but workers with low seniority must take a leave of absence until the break is over.

However, Weir did not address problems facing civil service employees.

Weir discussed the increase in people in the 106th congressional district who are going on welfare for the first time.

"There is a 16 percent increase in the number of people going on welfare for the first time in Coles County and unemployment is still above 10 percent," Weir noted.

"The recovery is here for some people, but not for most of the people in this district," he said. "I don't care what the President says, the recovery is not here."

Fund roadblock may halt construction of highways

WASHINGTON (AP)—Interstate highway projects are on the verge of shutting down, and state and federal officials warn the entire construction season may be lost, because of a political standoff in Congress blocking release of $5 billion in road money.

The dispute over a bill to release the money has raged since October. Sources say it has become a struggle between House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and the Reagan administration.

A dozen governors will discuss the crisis Monday with transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole and most of them, in Washington for a winter meeting, plan trips to the Capitol to pressure local congressmen.

But Indiana Gov. Robert Orr, head of the National Governors' Association's transportation committee, said the money may be locked up another three to six months, which he called "disastrous."

By law, Congress must approve an Interstate Cost Estimate before federal money for interstate construction can be distributed. Once routine, this year it is engulfed in pork-barrel politics, focusing on a project to expand a key leg of highway in central Boston.

The Federal Highway Administration opposes a Massachusetts plan to put the elevated Boston Central Artery underground as part of the interstate program. O'Neill wants language assuring that the 15-year, $1.9 billion project to be part of the nationwide system, be included in the overall cost estimate legislation. State officials say the project already was included, but the administration dropped it.

"The speaker is determined to preserve the state's interest," an aide to O'Neill said.

"There are six of us to decide on this, so it would be hard for me to say what the decision would be until it is presented to us and we have time to study it," he said.

In addition, he said, "I feel the policy we had last year was good. There were no problems, no big clean-ups and we didn't spend a nickel on it.

"I don't believe you can influence attendance at football games just by serving beer. However, we will study it and consider the proposals," he said.

Cole said that the Student Senate University Relations Committee obtained student input from fraternities, sororities and residence halls because there were complaints with last year's tailgate policy.

The former policy, implemented Oct. 6, 1983, allowed tailgating in designated areas between 10:30 a.m. and 1:15 p.m., or 15 minutes prior to the start of the game and did not permit kegs.

Following the Eastern-University of Northern Iowa home game Oct. 15, another policy was implemented because attendance was scarce.

The revised policy allowed one keg per car.

Award offered in honor of past vice president

by Dawn Stultz
Nominations are being accepted for the Hobart F. Heller scholarship, a $300 award given to a junior or senior in memoriam of Eastern's first vice president for instruction.

Dolores Michael, of the Student Affairs Office, said applicants must be of junior standing or entering their senior year. Applicants must also have attended Eastern the majority of their college careers.

"The student must possess a responsible character, a sense of purpose, growth and service to the university during his or her first three years of college," Michael said.

"One student is chosen every spring and presented the cash award," she noted. Students are nominated by department chairmen.

The recipient is selected by a committee that screens the applications, Michael said. "The committee is made up of people who knew Hobart Heller."

Members of the committee include Garland Bryan, retired director of Eastern's Textbook Rental Service; Donald K. Neal, Eastern alumnus; James Johnson, assistant dean of student personnel services; and Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs.

Applications are available at the Student Affairs Office, Old Main room 115. They should be returned to the office by March 30.

Microcomputer courses slated

by Debra Klauer
The first session of two non-credit introductory microcomputer courses will begin Monday.

The courses, sponsored by Eastern's Office of Continuing Education, will consist of 10 hours of instruction on an IBM personal computer, Carla Axt, an Office of Continuing Education intern, said.

"The course will be real beneficial and a good starting point for those who want to learn how to use a computer," Axt said.

Previous experience with computers is not a prerequisite for the course, she noted. "The classes are taught on a general level."

The courses taught by Anthony Schaeffer and Hal Anderson of computer services will introduce three applications of computers: word processing, file management and spread sheets, Axt said.

Although participants will be taught on an IBM personal computer, the skills learned may be applied to almost any make or model of computer, she added.

Registration fee is $90 per person or $140 for a team of two people. Space is limited, she noted.

The first course is scheduled for Monday and Wednesday and March 5 and 7. The second course will be conducted March 12, 14, 19 and 21. The course will be conducted from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Old Main room 304.

Art exhibit at TAC created by Eastern art instructor

by Rajendra Sinhaa
The Moldroski Brothers, who specialize in paintings, drawings, assemblages and fabricated paper, are currently exhibiting their work at the Tarble Arts Center.
Dick Moldroski, an art instructor at Eastern and past recipient of the Tiffany Fellowship, has been teaching for 28 years.
Although Dick is primarily a painter, he said, he later became fascinated with the use of paper pulp as an art form. "With absolutely no knowledge (of paper pulp) at all, I jumped into it and through trial and error developed it into sort of art form for me," he said.
Dick said that he does not work from preconceptions. He describes his work as personal, quiet and very recognizable.
Unlike his brother, Don said, he is a self-taught artist. Using a strong commercial background, he has worked as a designer and art director full time since 1958.
"My painting and my sculpture—when they are effective—seem to pose both a question and reflect an answer, but I am not especially keen on realizing either one," he said.
The Moldroski Brothers exhibit, which is currently on display at the TAC, will continue through March 2.

Buddy from page 1

"The Buddy Button System won't work because you can't necessarily trust the buddy who may be wearing the button," she said.
"There is just no way to tell if the person who is wearing the button is really a creep in disguise," she added.
Senior Matt Abraham said, "People should walk at night with someone they know and not trust someone just because they have the same color button."
"You can't tell everything you need to know about a person before you can trust them by the color of the button they are wearing," he added.
Abraham added that trust was his reason for not supporting the system.
Although many students viewed student trust as the major flaw in the system, others said the Buddy Button System would make an improvement in campus security.
Junior Paul Jach said the system was a "good idea because it would give students a way to get home safely without having to pay extra for added security."
He noted that another benefit of the system is that students would "have a security program without having to go too far out of their way."
Junior Susie Sorci also said the system was a good idea because students would be able to go out at night without the fear of having to walk home alone.
"It makes me feel safer knowing I can find someone to walk with me," and she is looking forward to the program's implementation.

Funds for travel available from Rotary scholarships

by David Brown

Eastern students interested in traveling to foreign countries to study will have the chance to do so through two scholarships being sponsored by the Charleston Rotary Club.

The Rotary Scholarship will provide funds for round-trip transportation, educational travel, tuition, books, room and board and other educational fees.

George Miller, Eastern's vice president for administration and finance, said the purpose of the Rotary Scholarship is to "promote international understanding."

Scholarship winners select three places abroad where they would like to study and are almost completely assured one of the three, he added.

Miller said scholarship applicants will be judged on their personal goals, recommendations from teachers and ability to speak a foreign language and overcome cultural change.

The worldwide Rotary International gives students the opportunity to travel almost anywhere in the world, Miller said.

"The competition will be keen," Miller noted. Eastern students will have to compete with students from at least 46 other areas within the Charleston district for the two scholarships.

Scholarship applications, which must be submitted by March 1, are available from Miller's office in Old Main.

A man of different dimensions

Zabka explains aspects of holography for 3-D movies

"I would explain to you exactly what it is that I do, but you probably would have to take at least 10 calculus classes to understand it."—Britton Zabka, holographer

by Keith Clark

Britton Zabka is a man of many dimensions. Well, at least three, if you're keeping track.

Zabka, an art student at Eastern in 1968, is a pioneer in the potentially revolutionary field of holographic cinematography, or adding a third dimension to film.

Holography is a process of film recording which uses lasers to produce a three-dimensional effect. Unlike current 3-D movies which require two cameras to produce the effect, holography requires only one camera, Zabka explained.

And you don't need the funky glasses to get the feeling of "being there," either, he added.

Zabka said holography could have a major impact on the film industry in years to come, but added that it depends on how society takes to move from two-dimensional education medias that we've been raised on, to a third dimension that has the same properties as the universe we live in."

Yet, Zabka said he expects holography to be the wave of the future not only in filmmaking, but in other communication fields as well.

Zabka, who currently resides in rural Charleston, said he first became interested in holography about 13 years ago.

"In the early 70s, I was traveling around painting murals on buildings when I happened to read 'The Lord of the Rings' by J.R.R. Tolkien, and I thought it would be neat to make it into a three-dimensional movie," he explained.

Zabka has yet to make a 3-D Tolkien film, but he did begin working with the U.S. government on early holographic projects, but became discouraged when the government said many of the ideas involved with holography were impossible to accomplish.

He has since proven the government wrong.

Making major breakthroughs in holography, he applied for a patent on the processes he has developed in 1982. Zabka said he has not received the patent yet.

Zabka also noted that he has been asked to lecture this summer at the Film Institute in Frankfurt, West Germany, about his process to an international holographic symposium.

Currently, Zabka's work can be seen in the display window of the Uptowner-Cellar, 563 Monroe St.

But he's not resting on the glory of his past accomplishments and instead is working on what he said he hopes will become more breakthroughs in holography.

His latest project involves combining holographic processes with computers, so the viewer can interact with the movie.

He noted that he would like to enlist the help of Eastern students to serve as talent in this project and emphasized that no prior experience is needed.

Anyone interested in becoming involved in a holographic project can meet with Zabka and his camera crew Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Union Walkway Lounge. Those interested should bring a photograph with their phone number or address.

IU-Converse Invitational

Matas, Francis top track records

Dobie Holland

Dan Matas broke a Panther shot put record for the third-straight week and Mark Francis set a 35-pound weight toss record Saturday to pace Eastern at the IU-Converse Invitational.

Matas, who grabbed one of Eastern's four individual first-place efforts, improved his record to 54'3 1/4", while Francis placed second with a 51' throw.

Although no team scores were kept, Eastern head coach Neil Moore said the meet was a good tuneup for next weekend's conference meet.

"Overall, we performed very well," Moore added. "This meet will help prepare us for the conference meet. We'll be the underdog for the title, but we can be first if we have a super day."

Eastern will compete Saturday for the Association of Mid-Central Universities indoor track championship at Western Illinois University.

Other Panther winners Saturday were Chris Johnson, who won the 600-yard dash with a 1:12.3 clocking. Perry Singer captured the three-mile run with a 14:15.4 time and placed second in the two-mile run at 9:05.9.

Eastern assistant track coach Tom Myers, an Eastern Illinois Track Club member, placed first in the 60-yard hurdles with a 7.50 time.

The distance-medley relay squad of Paul Beranek, Don Johnson, Drew Mesler and John Gassmann placed first with a 10:08.7 time.

In addition, Eastern's mile-relay team of Claude Magee, Mark Smith, Matt Adamson, and Chris Johnson finished first with a 3:22.5 clocking.

Women tracksters place fifth in GCAC

Dobie Holland

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa—Inconvenience hampered Eastern's women's track team Saturday as the Panthers placed fifth in the 10-team Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference meet.

"We placed in the middle of the pack—that's respectable," Panther head coach John Craft said. "We probably could have done better, though."

Illinois State University, 166 points, captured its second-straight championship by outrunning the field and second-place Drake University, 82 points.

Wichita State and Western Illinois Universities followed with 68 and 63 points, respectively, while Eastern collected 41 points to place fifth.

Despite a mediocre overall performance, Craft said senior sprint standout Gail Stephens was "one of the bright spots."

Stephens not only bettered her school record in the 600-yard dash; the senior placed first and rewrote the GCAC record books with a 1:21.6 clocking.

"She ran another excellent race," Craft said. "She used her usual strategy of trailing the lead runner until she sees fit to burst into the lead."

Stephens now awaits word from the NCAA about advancing to the national finals March 10 in Syracuse, N.Y. Stephens, who has already qualified, will compete only if her time is among the top twenty in the nation.

Stephens also anchored the Panthers' first-place and record-setting mile relay Saturday, after Barbara Hudson, Lauren Lynch and Renee Johnson got off to a good start.

However, their 3:49.2 time fell short of the NCAA Division I Indoor Nationals qualifying time by roughly three seconds, Craft said.

In addition to Eastern's two first-place finishes, freshman Beth Smith placed fourth in the pentathlon and Lauren Lynch finished fifth in the 400-yard dash, 58.83.

Lynch, who has suffered from swollen glands, was less than 100 percent Saturday, Craft noted.

Denise Macon rounded out the Panther finishers by placing sixth in the shot put with a 40'11 1/4" throw.

Attendance down on USFL opening day

(AP)—The United States Football League began its second season Sunday with solid play from new quarterbacks Dan Sipe, Doug Williams and Jim Kelly. But it got less glowing performances from Mike Rozier, Joe Cribbs and Herschel Walker and a mixed reception from fans.

Overall, average attendance for Sunday's eight games was 34,200, compared to 38,988 for six openers last season. The league expanded this season to 18 teams from last year's 12. Sipe, the former Cleveland Brown, joined a defense revamped by the spending of new owner Donald Trump to lead the New Jersey Generals to a 17-6 win over the Birmingham Stallions.

The game was played before a league record crowd—an estimated 43,000—at Birmingham's Legion Field.

Williams, who came from the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the National Football League, threw a 12-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter to Derek Hughes to lead the Oklahoma Outlaws to a 7-3 win over the Pittsburgh Maulers. The game between the two new teams, played in a steady rain and with a wind-chill factor of 20, had the day's lowest turnout, 11,639.

with 25 points and 12 rebounds, but the Panthers needed some additional help to down the Shockers.

"Toni played a much more solid game for us, but she can't do it alone," Hilke said.

Collins' three-foot bank shot with 8:58 remaining in the game trimmed Wichita State's lead to 51-47, but that was the closest Eastern came to the Shockers.

Wichita State's Allison Daniel led the Shocker scoring attack with 26 points. The guard also hit six of eight free-throw attempts.

Hilke said Wichita State's free-throw shooting made the difference. "They hit the free throws at the end and stayed ahead of us," she said.

Shocker forward Jenny Parr, who hauled down 12 defensive rebounds, helped Wichita State by tossing in 12 points, including 10 in the second half.

Meanwhile, Panther leading rebounder Chris Aldridge, who posted three points and seven rebounds, was hampered by a sore ankle.

"It really hurts us that Chris' ankle is getting worse," Hilke said.

half Saturday night.

Eastern's guards accounted for 18 of 20 unanswered points as the Panthers turned a 16-9 deficit into a commanding 29-16 lead.

Western's big nemesis Wyss said Saturday's game plan was to attack the Leatherneck guards.

"We knew coming in their guards were not great defensively and we looked to post them up," he said.

Backcourt mate Smelter agreed the Panthers' overwhelming guard strength made the difference.

"The key tonight was definitely the play of our guards," he said. "Coach told us to take it to them and we did."

The Panther scoring outbreak left the Leathernecks stunned as Western never regained the lead after slumping to a 43-33 halftime disadvantage.

Margenthaler said, "I don't think we ever really recovered from that 20-point spurt. I mean we had our share of chances, but we just didn't take advantage of them."

However, Samuels credited an aggressive Panther defense in not allowing a Leatherneck comeback.

"It was tough for them to recover," he said. "When they started to make runs at us we seemed to come up with the good defensive play."

In all, the Panthers forced 12 first-half Leatherneck turnovers, while limiting themselves to six.

"I think we started off a little flat, but we created some turnovers and that really got us going," Samuels said.

Wyss and Smelter led the Panther first-half scoring attack with 10 and nine points, respectively, as Eastern shot 51 percent from the field connecting on 17 of 33 attempts.

During the second half the Leathernecks could come no closer than eight points and conversely trailed by as many as 20 points.

Two qualify to Division I national final

by John Humenik

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—Mark Ruettiger never wrestled in an NCAA regional qualifying meet before Saturday, but that didn't bother the 126-pounder.

Ruettiger, who won the 126-pound title, joined heavyweight Duane Clark as Eastern's only NCAA national qualifiers from the 14-team Indiana State University Regional.

"Mark wrestled extremely well and Duane is starting to wrestle better all the time," Eastern head wrestling coach Ralph McCausland said.

Ruettiger defeated University of Northern Iowa's Paul Kreimeyer 8-3.

Clark, who placed fifth last year, rolled over John Klink of Western Illinois University 9-1 for third place.

"I was anticipating a possibility of four people qualifying, but I really wasn't disappointed," McCausland added. "It's the third-highest qualifying meet in the country."

Ruettiger and Clark, who qualified through the consolation bracket, now advance to the NCAA Division I championships March 8-10 at the Meadowlands in New Jersey.

The top three finishers in each weight class Saturday plus four overall wild cards qualified to the nationals out of a field of 120 wrestlers.

Overall, the Panthers finished eighth with 43½ and defeated league rivals Western Illinois and Southwest Missouri State University.

Meanwhile, Louisiana State University captured the regional championship with 148¼ and Northern Iowa placed second with 133 points.

Other than the Ruettiger and Clark victories, the Panthers did not fare very well; hopefuls Dan Sanko, 167-pounds, and Ozzie Porter, 158-pounds, lost their first matches.

Sanko was eliminated by Indiana State's Sean McCarthy in a weight class with five individuals qualifying.

Panther guards prove too quick for Western

by Mike Lynch

There was no guarded secret to Eastern's 92-76 conference victory Saturday night over intrastate rival Western Illinois University—the Panthers simply played hard.

In fact, once Eastern's guards got going, it seemed nothing could stop Tim Wyss, Vincent Smelter and Troy Richardson as they combined for 56 points.

"We thought coming in we could utilize our strength at guards and we did just that," Panther head coach Rick Samuels said. "Richardson is so much quicker than anyone they have and Wyss and Smelter are stronger."

The Panthers, 5-6 and 13-11 overall, were paced by Wyss' 24 points, while backcourt mates Smelter and Richardson chipped in 17 and 13 points, respectively.

Western head coach Jack Margenthaler said, "When you lose it's as a total team, but tonight the difference was that their (the Panthers) guard play was much better."

"It's rather obvious judging from tonight's performance our guards are not very good, particularly defensively," he added.

Samuels said he anticipates continued strong guard play Monday night when Eastern continues its season-ending, six-game homestand against Valparaiso University 7:30 p.m. at Lantz Gym.

"We hope to use our post play more effectively, but overall I think our guards are stronger particularly at point guard," Samuels said.

Valparaiso, a 57-54 loser Saturday night to league-frontrunner University of Illinois-Chicago, will conclude its season series with the Panthers.

Eastern holds a 5-3 series advantage over Valparaiso, including a 58-52 victory over the Vikings Jan. 14 in Valparaiso's Hilltop Gym.

Should the Panthers win Monday, they would cap their longest winning streak of the year at four games. The Vikings are currently 3-10 in the league and 8-16 overall.

Meanwhile, the Panthers' superior guard strength was never more apparent than midway through the first

Drop from title chase

Women cagers upended

by Mike Sengstock

WICHITA, Kan.—Any hopes Eastern's women's basketball team had of capturing its first league title fell by the wayside Saturday night.

The Panthers, who have dropped two straight games, were eliminated from the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference race following a 70-65 loss Saturday to Wichita State University.

"Going into the season, we really didn't expect to win the conference," Eastern head coach Barbara Hike said Saturday.

"These two losses (Wichita State and Southwest Missouri State University Thursday) really hurt us, because we want to show we have a quality Division I program," she added.

The fifth-place Panthers, who had to win their remaining five league games, had a remote chance of eventually winning the conference title going into Saturday's game.

Saturday's setback moved the Panther GCAC record to 9-6 and 15-7 overall, while Wichita State jumped to 10-4 and 12-12.
